The Social Media Pessimist

» @theSeanNow

As if society didn't already know that you're a raging asshole, we've made it to the point where it must be documented in a public review-based format to actually count.

Introducing Peeple, an app that allows users to rate human beings on their personalities, professionalism and skills in the bedroom, I would assume. It's valued at $7.6 million.

Sounds scary, eh? You'll just refuse to be a part of it, right? Too bad. There is currently no way to opt out of being on it. Sorry that Peeple's not sorry?

I can't tell you the amount of times in my life I've lain awake at night, wishing I could be treated like a coffee-maker on amazon.com. That people valued my existence on a 1- to 5-star scale instead of a genuine assessment of my persona. That on my off days, someone would come by and slam a "TOTAL WORTHLESS PIECE OF GARBAGE" title on me.

Finally, that day has come. I'm percolating over here. No filter needed.

Every moment of every day going forward, you're on watch. Every set of eyeballs in every room in every building is fixated on you. And your mannerisms. How you carry yourself. The way you speak. How long after someone sneezes you shout, "God bless you!"

Because the world needs to know: Are you the person who drops your change into a homeless man's cup after your Starbucks run? Or the one who pulls out his or her phone and scrolls through Instagram and pretends he or she is responding to a client via email?

When you end a relationship, are you civil? Do you use the phrase "It's not you, it's me" and try to "stay friends"? Or do you create the most aggressive public verbal [bleep]storm anyone's ever seen, referencing their mother and their overall lack of ambition in life?

The difference between being a solid 4.9 on Peeple and a pathetic 3.3 is life or death. Well, that's at least what the creators of the app are making it sound like.

The difference between being a solid 4.9 on Peeple and a pathetic 3.3 is life or death. Well, that's at least what the creators of the app are making it sound like.

I'd imagine the founders of this app—obviously insanely self-conscious individuals who in high school spent most of their lunch breaks inside a locker—are thrilled at what shift in the universe this might cause.

If finding out your Uber rating was the highlight of your month, then I can only imagine how antsy you'll be when people from every aspect of your life—colleagues, one-night stands, the maintenance guy in your building—are given the opportunity to grade your existence.

Can't we all just agree that everyone sucks and we're trying our absolute best to all share this giant spinning rock?

God, Peeple these days, ya know?

WITH CUTLER BACK AND GOULD GOLDEN, BEARS GET FIRST WIN

By Leonor Vivanco | REDEYE

Sunday football is a ritual for faithful Bears fans hoping and praying to the football gods for a win.

Well, their prayers were answered as the Bears won their first game of the season against the Oakland Raiders at Soldier Field, snapping a three-game losing streak.

"It feels great to win. It's a good feeling, so hopefully we get this a lot more," Robbie Gould said in the locker room after he made a 49-yard field goal to give the Bears the 22-20 edge. With two seconds left, his teammates rushed him on the field to celebrate.

"I'm really happy for our fans because we haven't exactly lit it up here in our first two home games," coach John Fox said.

Sure, the Bears have their playbook, but that wasn't exactly working at the start of the season. We will chalk up Sunday's victory to following most of the 10 commandments of Bears football.

LVIVANCO@REDEYECHICAGO.COM | @LVIVANCO

Thou shalt give fans a reason to cheer for Jay Cutler.

Welcome back, Jay. In the first quarter alone, he passed for 93 yards, more yards than backup Jimmy Clausen passed for the entire game last week (63 yards) when the Bears got shut out. Cutler ended up with a single interception and completed 28 passes for a total of 281 passing yards for the game.

Thou shalt strike first. In the first four minutes, Cutler was able to get the ball moving down the field 80 yards in eight plays, including a touchdown pass to wide receiver Eddie Royal to put the Bears on the scoreboard first with six points.

Thou shalt kick some ... ball. Gould's kick was blocked for the extra point in the first quarter, but he bounced back with a couple of clutch field goals to help the Bears take the lead in the fourth quarter—a 54-yard one at the start and a 49-yard game-winner as the clock was running out.

Thou shalt not get injured. Cutler returned, but the Bears still have some players sitting on the sidelines: Alshon Jeffery missed his third straight game, left tackle Jermon Bushrod was out, and now add to the list center Will Montgomery, with a left leg injury, and safety Antrel Rolle, who hurt his ankle.

WEEK 4

Thursday	Sunday
Baltimore	23
Pittsburgh	20
Kansas City	21	Houston	21
Cincinnati	36	Atlanta	48
Philadelphia	20	Washington	23
Carolina	37	Tampa Bay	23
N.Y. Giants	24	Buffalo	10
Jacksonville	13	Indianapolis	16
N.Y. Jets	16	Miami	27
Minnesota	20	Denver	14
St. Louis	23	Arizona	23
	24		22

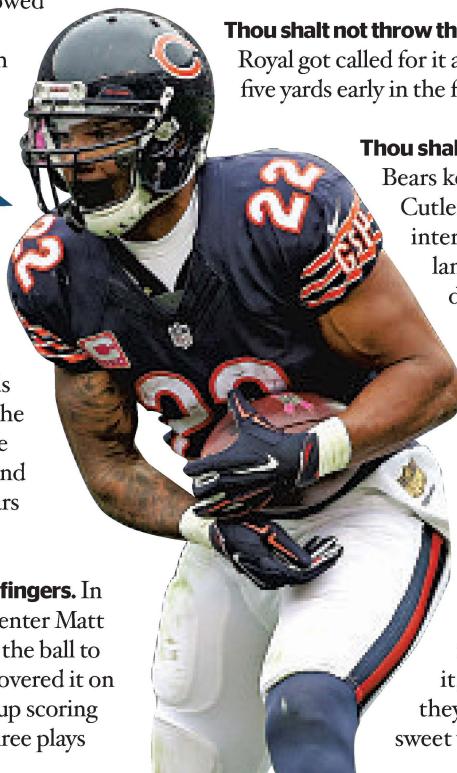

Thou shalt touch the Stanley Cup for good luck. The Hawks brought the Cup to Soldier Field for Sunday's game, and that could be the closest the Bears get to a championship this season.

Thou shalt do a touchdown dance. Tight end Martellus Bennett showed off a little shimmy after catching a 5-yard pass from Cutler in the endzone to bring the Bears a point behind the Raiders at 14-13 in the second quarter.

Thou shalt bow down to Matt Forte. He reached the milestone of 8,000 career rushing yards. His longest run was for 38 yards into Oakland territory in the second quarter, putting the Bears in scoring position and eventually leading to a Bears touchdown.

Thou shalt not have butterfingers. In the second quarter, Bears center Matt Slauson fumbled in getting the ball to Cutler, and the Raiders recovered it on the 25-yard line and ended up scoring their second touchdown three plays later to make it 14-6. But Bears linebacker Pernell McPhee made up for it when he grabbed the ball after it bounced off Oakland's running back Latavius Murray and took it to Oakland's 15-yard line. The Bears were only able to get up a field goal from that interception to take the lead 16 to 14 before halftime.

Thou shalt not throw the ball at officials. Royal got called for it and set the Bears back five yards early in the fourth quarter.

Thou shalt not panic. The Bears kept their cool after Cutler threw his only interception and Oakland pushed the ball down the field to rack up three more points and take a one-point lead with two minutes left in the game. They shook it off and continued to methodically move the ball down the field to set Gould up for a 49-yard field goal. He nailed it, giving the fans what they wanted: the taste of sweet victory.

#LagunaPicks

All season, Laguna the Shedd Aquarium sea lion will predict the winner in Bears games. He picked the Raiders on Sunday, which means he's 2-2. Long season ahead, though. For more information on Laguna and sea lions, visit sheddaquarium.org.

1	Who was really behind the GoFundMe campaign to send Steve Bartman to the Cubs wild-card game?	Dusty Baker and Alex Gonzalez. Dusty, why didn't you calm Prior down? Alex, you turn that double play, we're out of the inning.	Steve Bartman.	Moises Alou. That scamp.	Jake Arrieta. He wants Bartman to be there when he no-hits Pittsburgh for the win.	It starts with a "G" and ends in "oat."
2	Speaking of the Cubs wild-card game, two days to go. How excited are you?	God created the universe in seven days. It's been 107 years for the Cubs. Excited? More like exhausted.	I am more excited for the Culver's that is opening in Wrigleyville than any sort of silly baseball game.	Already planning my flight to the Dominican Republic, just like Moises Alou did after the Bartman game.	Remember when Jessie Spano took those pills? I'm THAT excited.	So excited, I just can't hide it.
3	It's official, Robin Ventura will be back next year. Thoughts?	Hahahahaha. #Why	My thought is that I could probably eat about three Culver's butterburgers right now.	As bad as he's been at his job, he should run for the Republican presidential nomination. He'd fit right in.	Have the Sox announced they'll be bringing back their sub-.500 record, too, or is that implied?	Stranger decisions have been made in the world of Chicago sports.
4	Instead of an armband, what should the NFL have said Ben Roethlisberger was holding on the sidelines?	He was texting Tom Brady for advice, "How do I get people to like me again?" #WhyIsYourMelonSoBig	Fragments of his dignity.	Terry Bradshaw's jock strap. No, wait, he couldn't carry that.	A zucchini. Ya know, really throw 'em off the scent.	A beeper.
5	What were Patrick Sharp and Johnny Oduya really thinking when they returned to the United Center?	Is this a bad dream like Bobby Ewing in "Dallas"? PLEASE wake us up! PLEASE? #ByeByeBoys	"Did this place always smell like old beef?"	Same thing I think whenever I see my ex on Facebook: TAKE ME BACK PLEASE!!!	"Boy, did I miss that $18 Garrett popcorn mix."	"Yep, still the best-looking guys here."

10 MOMENTS THAT DEFINED CUBS' SEASON

Chicago Tribune

APRIL 17

The phenom arrives

Many argued that top prospect Kris Bryant should have been the starting third baseman from opening day. Nevertheless, the Cubs called him up from Triple-A Iowa to make his major-league debut against the Padres at Wrigley Field.

MAY 11

Welcome back

The opening of the renovated left-field bleachers brought back a cozy feeling for Cubs outfielders. It was one of the first significant projects to be completed in the massive ballpark renovation.

MAY 16

An early sign

$150 million free-agent addition Jon Lester outdueled Pirates ace Gerrit Cole in a 4-1 victory at Wrigley Field, helping extend the Cubs' winning streak to six games.

JUNE 22

Slaying a giant

In the opener of a four-game series against the Dodgers at Wrigley Field, Bryant broke a 1-for-18 slump with a two-run homer off 2014 NL Cy Young winner and MVP Clayton Kershaw. Matt Szczur added a solo blast off Kershaw in the seventh, then Bryant belted his second of the night in the eighth, in a 4-2 Cubs victory.

JUNE 30

It's magic

After a five-game losing streak capped by the Cardinals' three-game sweep in St. Louis, manager Joe Maddon hired a magician to relax his stressed players. The Cubs responded with a 1-0 victory over the Mets in New York, prompting Maddon to play the 1965 hit "Do You Believe In Magic?" by the Lovin' Spoonful in his office afterward. Chris Denorfia selected "Magic" by Pilot in the clubhouse. The latter tune is played occasionally by the Wrigley Field music mixer.

JULY 21

The Schwarber Game

Rookie slugger Kyle Schwarber drove in four runs with two homers to give the Cubs a 5-4 victory over the Reds. Schwarber had tied the game in the ninth with a two-run blast; he finished with four hits.

NATIONAL LEAGUE WILD CARD GAME

Cubs at Pittsburgh

7 p.m. Wednesday, TBS

AUG. 30

A very good night

Jake Arrieta no-hitted the Dodgers 11 days shy of the 50th anniversary of Sandy Koufax's perfect game on the same Dodger Stadium mound. Arrieta struck out 12 and walked one in snapping the Cubs' four-game losing streak, announcing to a national TV audience that he was a legit Cy Young candidate. Arrieta then showed up for his postgame interview before the team's late-night flight wearing a handlebar-mustache onesie as part of Maddon's themed trip home.

SEPT. 7

Beatdown at Busch

After losing nine of their first 13 meetings against the Cardinals, the Cubs humbled their NL Central rivals by scoring eight times in the first three innings and went on to a 9-0 victory.

SEPT. 18

Joe goes Soprano

Despite an 8-3 victory over the Cardinals, Maddon wasn't happy afterward. He railed against the Cardinals' tactics after Anthony Rizzo was hit for the second time. "I don't know who put out the hit," Maddon said. "I don't know if Tony Soprano is in the dugout... But we're not going to put up with it, from them or anybody else." Matt Belisle hit Rizzo an inning after Dan Haren had beaten Matt Holliday with an 86 mph pitch.

SEPT. 22

Milestone win

Arrieta didn't need much run support to back his three-hit, 11-strikeout, 123-pitch shutout of the Brewers to become the first Cubs pitcher in 14 seasons to win 20 games. Bryant hit his 26th home run to break Hall of Famer Billy Williams' franchise rookie record.

15 COCKTAILS TO SIP THIS SEASON

By Heather Schroering | REDEYE

Despite what Cinderella's fairy godmother said, we wouldn't mind one bit if all summer beverages turned into pumpkins. And we're not talking PSLs. No, we've got something better—booze. Say hello to October and welcome the fine flavors its fruits bear. From pumpkin, apple and dark fruit to chocolate, smoky, savory and spiced, Chicago's bars are helping keep your glasses full with the essence of fall. Check out these 15 cocktails and get your fall fix, ya pumpkin heads. HSCHROERING@REDEYESCHICAGO.COM | CHITSHEATHER

CHOCOLATE Of Quarters & Halves $12 at The Revel Room

1566 N. Milwaukee Ave. 773-278-1600

From the nitro tap of this Wicker Park bar comes this Halfwit Coffee Roasters coffee cocktail with rye whiskey, amaro, chocolate liqueur and coffee bitters. Would you like a little caffeine with that cocktail?

SPICEDGhost Town Fizz*$12 at The Dawson
730 W. Grand Ave. 312-243-8955

As always, Harrison Ginsberg (another 2015 Best Bartender participant) and his team at the West Town bar-restaurant deliver on the details, and this fall's cocktail selection, launching Oct. 15, doesn't disappoint (there's even one with gold-painted lemon garnishes). We recommend this pisco- and vodka-based cocktail with muddled blackberries, fresh lime juice, egg white, soda and black rice horchata, which is made in-house from black rice macerated with vanilla bean, woodruff, black cardamom and cinnamon that's then pureed and sweetened. And don't forget the grated black cardamom garnish. It's the little things.

Form of Flattery$14 at The Commons Club
203 N. Wabash Ave. 312-940-4747

Don't be fooled by the summery citrus ingredients in this one. The Virgin Hotel bar's fall spice twist on a Moscow mule features vodka, St. Elizabeth Allspice Dram (a woodsy rum-based liqueur with cloves, cinnamon, nutmeg and pepper), fino sherry, lime juice and calamansi extract (from the mandarin orange-kumquat hybrid fruit), topped with ginger beer. Stop by mid-month when the fall menu is available.

Tom and Jerry*$12 at The Heavy Feather
2357 N. Milwaukee Ave. 773-739-8504

Cold-weather cocktails don't get much more fun than this classic eggnog variant. Doug Phillips, beverage director at the Slippery Slope's recently opened upstairs fern bar, mixes brandy, two kinds of rum, cream, egg, cinnamon, clove and vanilla with a sprinkle of nutmeg. Keep an eye out for this one come November.

CHOCOLATECrafty Kitsune*$13 at Momotaro
820 W. Lake St. 312-733-4818

Who doesn't love a good combo? This one from the Japanese Fulton Market restaurant is sweet and salty with bourbon, chocolate liqueur, shiro miso syrup and a whole egg served in a coupe with a smoked sea salt rim.

PUMPKINWinter is Coming*$11 at Lillie's Q
1856 W. North Ave. 773-772-5500

Pumpkin, great. Pumpkin and gin, better! Pumpkin, gin AND apple? What is this autumn magic? Stop by the Wicker Park meat house for this gin cocktail with a housemade pumpkin reduction and lemon juice topped with Vander Mill's Totally Roasted hard cider and a lemon peel.

Momma D's Pumpkin Pie*$10 at The Promontory
5311 S. Lake Park Ave. 312-801-2100

Choosing just one cocktail from the Hyde Park bar's fall menu wasn't easy—until we saw the pumpkin concoction with our 2015 Best Bartender finalist Diana Sanders' name all over it (literally, kind of). This dessert in a glass makes pumpkin pie on a plate seem boring. Pisco is fat-washed with brown butter (butter is added to the spirit and the concoction is chilled until the butter solidifies enough to be skimmed off, leaving the flavor behind) and mixed with housemade pumpkin soda, graham-cracker syrup and maple whip. Also noteworthy: the rum-raisin old fashioned and the rum-based Scary Spice cocktail with pumpkin butter.

APPLEThe Harvest*$13 at Celeste
111 W. Hubbard St.
312-828-9000

Two words: apple butter. This brandy cocktail at the River North bar has it, and the only thing that would make it better is a cinnamon stick. But wait, it has that too!

Wassail*$8 at Pub Royale
2049 W.
Division St.
773-661-6974

Go a-wassailing to this British-Indian-inspired Wicker Park spot for a warm treat made with an apple blend—cored and baked with demerara sugar, citrus juice, clove and allspice—cider, Madeira and port wines garnished with grated nutmeg and an orange swath.

DARK FRUITFig Fashioned*$9 at Tack Room
1807 S. Allport St.
312-526-3051

Extra dry and black cask rums, housemade fig preserves, house bitters and orange oil—it's kind of a fig deal at the Pilsen piano saloon tucked inside Thalia Hall.

Frontier Shrub*$12 at White Oak Tavern & Inn
1200 W. Webster Ave. 773-249-0200

If you haven't met a shrub cocktail yet, let this one be your introduction. New beverage director Michael Pickering uses the colonial technique (macerating overripe fruit in sugar, straining the juice and adding vinegar to balance out the sweetness) with fresh cranberries in this bourbon cocktail with blackcurrant liqueur, herbaceous bitters and a cinnamon garnish. Look for it on the menu in about two weeks.

SAVORY

First Fire

$12 at Tete Charcuterie
1114 W. Randolph St. 312-733-1178

It's butternut squash season, and if you're like us, you want it in every meal. And now you can have it in a glass with bar director Owen Worley's smooth, savory scotch concoction with squash juice cooked sous-vide (in an airtight bag that's placed in a water bath), black cardamom tincture and housemade pecan syrup.

Zuckerman's Famous Drink

$10 at Longman & Eagle
2657 N. Kedzie Ave. 773-276-7110

Bacon and bourbon go together like bacon and just about everything else. This bacon-fat-washed whiskey cocktail from the Logan Square bar sounds like a great breakfast stand-in with maple syrup, pineapple shrub and lemon juice. And get a kick out of that bacon-jalapeno salted rim.

SMOKY

Maple & Sage

$14 at ETA
455 N. Park Drive 312-840-6600

Leaves and campfire are two autumnal aromas that mean the season is in full swing. Lauren Parton, bar manager at the Loews Hotel's lobby bar, starts this cocktail off right by smoking the glass with burnt sage before mixing in rum, Spanish white wine and maple syrup with a sage sprig garnish. The pyro in me thinks this drink is fire. Ask for it by name at the bar.

Mr. Dooley

$16 at GreenRiver
259 E. Erie St., 18th floor 312-337-0101

Not sure who Mr. Dooley is, but we like the sound of this cocktail at the new Streeterville Irish-American restaurant, with rye whiskey, herbaceous Amaro Montenegro, a chocolatey syrup made with lapsang souchong black tea and creme de cacao, lemon juice, Orinoco bitters, egg white and a sprinkle of cinnamon.

TAROT.COM

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23

From Thursday until Nov. 8, you might enjoy spending more time alone with your sweetheart rather than at social events. Or you might need to retreat away from everything to figure out what to do next in a romantic situation. Trust your gut.

Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 21

If you and a friend have an unspoken attraction for one another, it might become more difficult to ignore after Thursday. The two of you may decide it's time to be friends and lovers. Although you might want to remain cautious until after Saturday, it does appear that this can work.

Sagittarius Nov. 22-Dec. 21

If you have struggled with listening to your heart because it seems to scream the exact opposite of what a friend's voice of reason has to say, this week that will change. Although well meaning, your friend shouldn't have as much say in the outcome of your love life as he or she has had in the past.

Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19

If you're single, after Thursday, you might have an opportunity to explore a romantic connection with someone you feel a deep spiritual bond with. This person might have a background different from yours, or beliefs that fascinate you. You'll want to expand your horizons and open your heart.

Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 18

If you're in a relationship, after Thursday, you and your partner might notice exciting developments connected to your joint finances, like a wonderful bonus check or raise, and the two of you will be ready to celebrate your good fortune. Hold off on major expenditures, though, until after Saturday.

Pisces Feb. 19-March 20

You and someone close might make a commitment to one another. If you're already hitched, you and your mate will enjoy an especially harmonious phase. Then, after Friday, if you and your partner have not been able to agree on a financial decision, a breakthrough will be possible.

Aries March 21-April 19

If you're single, after Thursday you'll have support to help you explore any chemistry you have with a co-worker. Go ahead; what have you got to lose? If you're in a relationship, on Friday conversations with your mate will finally begin to make sense again.

Taurus April 20-May 20

Love is in the air! This Thursday, Venus enters your romance sector, where she'll remain until Nov. 8. If you're single, there has never been a brighter opportunity for you to meet someone amazing and fall deeply in love.

Gemini May 21-June 21

You and your partner might have to overcome a difficult situation on Saturday that has to do with your domestic life. If single, after Friday you'll have more support to initiate productive conversations with prospective dates, and you'll be able to trust your judgment in matters of the heart.

Cancer June 22-July 22

Communication in love will be well-supported this week. Until Nov. 8, you'll find it much easier to speak from your heart and to enjoy dialogue and make decisions with your sweetie. After Friday, domestic disputes affecting your relationship will finally get resolved.

Leo July 23-Aug. 22

If there is a relationship decision that has been weighing heavily on your mind since last month, you're in luck. Communication with your partner might have been less than smooth, and you might be at the end of your rope. Hang in there! This week you'll find that your ability to enjoy conversations together is finally back.

Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22

This Thursday, Venus will enter Virgo, giving you a boost in confidence, allure and love potential. If you're single, you'll use this to your advantage without even having to try. Others will gravitate toward you effortlessly. If you're partnered up, you and your mate will enjoy an extra dose of happy.

'SNL' RIPS TRUMP

In the first episode of its 41st season, "Saturday Night Live" ripped into Donald Trump.

The sketch comedy show opened with Taran Killam portraying the presidential hopeful, referring to himself as "almost certainly your next president," according to thr.com. Killam as Trump also referenced Trump's conflict with Fox News' Megyn Kelly, saying, "She's talented and beautiful, but she's a bch who's always on her period, and I hope she dies." We're thinking this is going to be a great season for "SNL."

THE QUOTE

"I studied Ashton Kutcher."

—Michael Fassbender, when asked how he prepared to play Steve Jobs in the upcoming biopic "Steve Jobs," according to gq.com. Damn. Kutcher portrayed the iconic leader behind Apple in the 2013 film "Jobs."

A reboot of what??

It looks like the classic "MacGyver" is finally getting its reboot. CBS has announced that it is putting a new MacGyver series into development, according to ew.com. The pilot will be directed by James Wan of "Furious 7" fame. EW reported, Wan has wanted to get a MacGyver feature film off the ground for a while, telling craveonline.com earlier this year, "I love the concept behind MacGyver, and I love the direction that we were going with it." Welp, we hope the reboot is amazing.

THE DIGIT

$55M

That's about how much "The Martian" made this weekend at the domestic box office, according to deadline.com. It's the second-best opening for an October movie, behind "Gravity," Deadline reported. "The Martian" also brought in about $45.2 million in international markets, Deadline said, bringing its worldwide total over the $100 million mark. Damn. People love watching others save Matt Damon.
